

Why men don't listen and women can't read maps?

Allan Pease and Barbara Pease

I bought this book in the Book Fair in July, and I started reading it on that night. I find it very useful because it is very useful in explaining the 'chemical' reactions of men and women's relationship.

Ever wonder why women can brush their teeth while walking and talking on various subjects while men find this very difficult to do ? Why 99 percent of all husbands hate shopping ? Why women can talk on phone for more than an hour without stopping and lack of topics ? According to Allan Pease and Barbara Pease, science confirms that men and women are different Scientists shows that the way our brains are wired and the hormones pulsing through our bodies are the two factors that large dictate, long before we are born, how we will think and behave. Our instincts are simply our genes determining how our bodies will behave in given sets of circumstances. In fact, men and women have profound brain differences and are intrinsically inclined to act in distinct ways.

This book is funny and interesting for it explains why most men and women behave in most of the time, and in most situations.
