

Film Festival

6D Liu Wing See

Dear Mr. Chan,

I am delighted to know that the Film Club will be hosting a film festival with the theme 'Teen Life' next month. Therefore, I would like to recommend some films to be shown at the festival.

One of the films I would like to suggest is '14-year-old mother'. This film is produced in Japan. This film is about teenage pregnancy and the problems a 14-year-old mother has faced. I think this film is suitable to be shown at the festival. The reason for this is simple and clear. It sends a message to teenagers that they should not do what one would regret later. In fact, teenagers should think twice before plunging into a love affair. The film guides the teenagers to think about what they should or should not do.

Another film I would like to suggest is called '17 again'. This film is about an old man who changes back to be a 17-year-old teenager. This film is very entertaining and yet you can get a clear message from the film – Don't do something that you would regret in the future. When you are young, you can do anything because you are full of energy and enthusiasm for the world. Nowadays, teenagers always play computer games and surf the Internet. It is a waste of time. Teenagers should do more of what they are interested in and stop wasting time on games. They should look ahead to their future and should not look back on the past. Nobody can go back to the old days like the main character of the film.

Not only do the above films provide entertainment for all students, their messages also match with the theme of the festival, 'Teen Life'. I hope these two films would be considered and be shown at the film festival.

Yours sincerely,
Chris Wong
