

Hong Kong Is No Longer An Attractive Tourist Destination

6A Cyan Chow

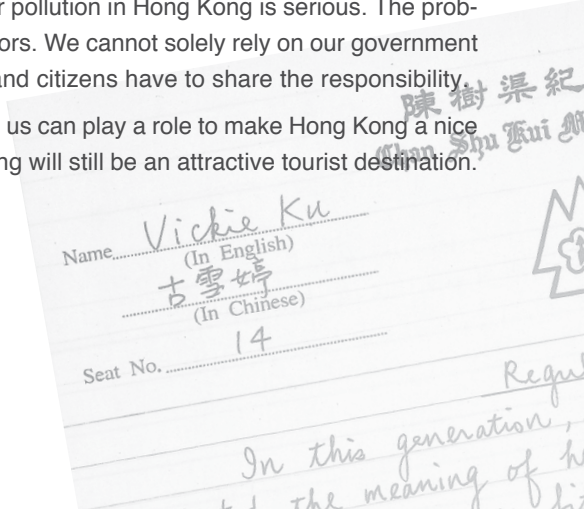

It is sometimes assumed that Hong Kong is no longer an attractive tourist destination. This is, however, very far from the truth. As a matter of fact, there are many different attractive things which are worth visiting and seeing in Hong Kong.

Some reports claimed that Hong Kong does not have enough tourist spots. The opposite is in fact true. There are some beautiful sandy beaches such as Repulse Bay, Discovery Bay and Shek O. Tourists can enjoy canoeing, wind-surfing and sun-bathing there. They can also take some photos to preserve their fantastic memories. If the above places cannot satisfy you, the Hong Kong Zoological and Botanical Garden must give you an unforgettable journey. There is a large variety of animals and plants which tourists can enjoy. Ocean Park is also highly recommended. It always promotes seasonal activities such as Halloween and Christmas celebrations. Every year, a lot of tourists visit Ocean Park. This shows that Hong Kong remains a popular travel destination in Asia.

Have you ever dreamt of visiting Disneyland? If so, your dream will definitely come true. Hong Kong Government is now developing Disneyland, which is suitable for all ages. Besides, there is a large variety of cuisines you can try in Hong Kong. If you want to try seafood, just go to Aberdeen or Lamma Island.

Some people may argue that there are dishonest shopkeepers cheating visitors. However, our government has done a lot to tackle the problem and improve the situation. There are exclusive VIP privileges just for visitors. A guide of quality shops and restaurants is provided to tourists. All the above aim to protect the benefits of tourists. In fact, fewer complaints have been received recently. However, it is true that air pollution in Hong Kong is serious. The problem can be attributed to many factors. We cannot solely rely on our government to solve it. Both the government and citizens have to share the responsibility.

As a responsible citizen, all of us can play a role to make Hong Kong a nice place to visit. Therefore, Hong Kong will still be an attractive tourist destination.

Teacher's Feedback : Cyan is able to show the positive side of Hong Kong and suggest a lot of places to visit. She also points out that in order to improve tourism in Hong Kong, it's not just the responsibility of the government, but all Hong Kong people. (Miss Lui Hoi Yee)

Food For Thought : How can the Government and citizens work together to improve the image of Hong Kong?
