

An Apology Letter To Bob Cratchit

2B Cheng Man Lung

Dear Bob Cratchit,

How are you? I am writing to say sorry to you.

I feel sorry because you have worked very hard but I just give you a small salary. The important thing is I didn't let you go home early at Christmas, so you couldn't play with your son. Now when I think of the things I have done, I can't sleep very well. I hope you can forgive me.

I think you will feel surprised that I am writing this letter to you. On Christmas Eve, I met three ghosts. From the three ghosts, I have learnt how to be a good man, and it is also that having a good friend is happier than having a lot of money. I think you may not believe that, but you must believe me because I have changed to be good.

Lastly, I promise I will help poor families and be kind to all people. I promise I will give you a turkey at Christmas and be kind to you and your family every day. I hope you can forgive me.

Happy New Year!

Yours,
Ebenezer Scrooge

Teacher's Feedback : The content of the letter is based on a classic, A Christmas Carol. Scrooge was a mean old miser. He met three ghosts on Christmas Eve and learnt a lesson. After that, he felt sorry about what he had done and promised to change to be a good man. This apology letter shows the student's understanding of the story. (Miss Louisa Chan)

Food For Thought : Will you write an apology letter to your friends or family if you make them angry?
