

If I Were Born In A Rich Family

2A Edwin Lau

When I was younger, I usually couldn't buy my favourite toys. I knew many friends whose parents were lawyers, engineers, or professionals. They always appeared in the tuck shop, had some expensive snacks, and looked polite and gentle. Obviously, they were richer than I. Therefore, I always think that if I were born in a rich family, I would be totally different from what I am now.

I might be living in Stanley rather than Jordan now, and there would be a different view from my window. I might be living in a different type of society. Now, I have to spend my money carefully on buying books and food, and pursuing my habits. I always have problems with how much I should spend on these things.

Everything might be completely different if I were born in a rich family. My friends might be sons of Mr. Li Ka Shing or Mr. Donald Tsang. However, I might also be a playful kid or a selfish man. I might fool around every day. I know that any little changes will cause a big change, so I never feel sorry for myself. Sometimes I am jealous of my friends who are rich, but I will treat this as an incentive to work harder!

Teacher's Feedback : Not every change is a good change. You don't need to envy those who are rich. You will be rich if you are rich in your heart. (Miss Louisa Chan)

Food For Thought : Is it really good to be born in a rich family?
