

My Favourite Film

2A Stephanie Po

Has anyone ever heard of “Infernal Affairs”? It is my favourite Hong Kong film. You may not know it by its English title, but it is a well-known local film about two policemen, starring Andy Lau and Tony Leung. I guess you know its Chinese title by now. “Infernal Affairs” is the story about an undercover policeman and an undercover triad. There are three episodes but the first one is definitely the best. It shows their feelings of their lost identities and the plot is unexpected and very exciting. The actors act very well in the film too.

I like this film because I like the police. They protect the public every day. I think they are great as they may risk their life to help others.

This film won seven awards in the Hong Kong Film Awards 2003, including the Best Picture and the Best Screenplay. I am very happy that my favourite actor, Tony Leung, won the Best Actor award! These awards show that the film is a must-see. For those who haven't seen this film, I strongly recommend it.

Teacher's Feedback : There is no doubt that the film is a good film. However, the film is too violent. It may not be very suitable for teenagers. (Miss Louisa Chan)

Food For Thought : What kind of films do you like?