

A Biography About An Admirable Person

3B Ho Shek Fai

There are many people whom I admire. Among them are Jackie Cheung, Faye Wong and Edison Chan. They are all my idols. But the one I admire most is Stephen Chow. He is very smart and loving.

Stephen Chow was born in Hong Kong on June 22, 1962. He has had an aspiration to become an actor since his early age. He began his acting career after applying for a placement at TVB, Hong Kong's leading television station.

Stephen's application for enrolment in the TVB Acting Training School was rejected at first. But with the help of his friend's recommendation, he was accepted to an evening class. The aim of the course was to train new actors /actresses for TVB.

In 1983, after signing a long term contract with the company, Stephen made his debut as a co-host in a children's program called "430 Space Shuttle".

Working continuously in roles between television series and movies, Stephen began appearing in countless TV dramas and movies, such as "He Who Chases", "After the wind", "Just Heroes", "Thunder Cops 2, Faithfully yours", and "Dragon Fight".

His big hit was the production of "God of Gamblers 3 – Back to Shanghai" because this movie is very exciting and outstanding.

Now Stephen Chow is a superstar. His wits and charms win the hearts of his fans. I wish I could meet him personally one day.

Teacher's Feedback : Evidently, you have done some research about Stephen Chow.

Your presentation of a brief life history of the actor should be credited. (Mr. Louis Tsang)

Food For Thought : Would Stephen Chow's story somehow enlighten your thinking concerning how a person struggles to reach his goal in spite of difficulties and frustrations in life?