

My Wishes

3C Wong Kit Yung

First, I wish I could talk to my dad every night. My dad is a businessman. He has long working hours in the office. Every night when he gets home, it is almost eleven, and everyone has gone to sleep already. It is therefore difficult to have the whole family gathered. If my dad could spare some of his time for us, I would tell him everything I saw and knew in school, for example, the “small talk” in class, the upcoming events in school as well as the excitement of being one of the four English Ambassadors on Valentine’s Day.

Second, I wish my mother could be more reasonable so that I could voice my opinion regarding a decision she made recently. If she were open to suggestions, I would tell her that the schedule for surfing the internet at home was not practical. Also I wish my dad could teach me basketball on weekends because he is very good at it.

Third, I wish I could get along with my brother and sister well. There would be neither argument nor fighting against each other at home. Instead we would help each other. Whenever I felt upset, they would always be by my side and comfort me.

Finally, I wish I could travel to Europe alone each summer. Paris, Milan and Vienna are places where I wish to go and stay if time allowed. If I traveled to these countries, I would take as many pictures as I could and spend as much money as I could on shopping, buying souvenirs for my friends and family.

Teacher’s Feedback : You have made a good effort in this piece of writing. Well done!

Try to elaborate the section where you say you wish to learn basketball from your dad. You may consider saying how good he plays or explaining why he cannot teach on weekends. (Miss Chan Mei Ngan)

Food For Thought : Have you ever attempted to make your wishes come true? How?
