

A Diary

Dear Diary,

Today, my sister and I went shopping at Paradise Mall. It should have been great, but something happened, which made my sister and me unhappy.

When we arrived at the mall, there were many people shopping. The people were enjoying shopping there and so was I. When we were walking around, we saw a snack shop. My sister bought some snacks and they tasted good. Later, we saw a Japanese snack shop. All the snacks were from Japan and they looked delicious, so my sister bought some, too.

There were more and more people in the shopping mall. My sister put her wallet in her little handbag. However, when we left the crowd, my sister discovered that her wallet had disappeared.

We returned to the Japanese snack shop immediately and searched for the wallet, but neither my sister nor I could find it.

We had no choice, so we went to the police station. We spent two hours waiting to report the loss. How ridiculous it was!

I hate the pickpocket. He stole the wallet. He is so selfish.

That's all for now. It is the worst day I have ever had and I'm off to bed.

Teacher's Feedback : The diary is well organised. The student has given a brief account of what happened to her on that day. Her personal feelings are also expressed in the diary. (Miss Louisa Chan)
