

A Ghost Story

2E Kiran Raved

One evening before midnight, Joe was working late in his office. Finally, he finished his work. He was sleepy and left the office.

Joe left his office at around midnight. He got into his car and started to drive home. On his way home, there were no cars on the road and it was very quiet.

Unexpectedly, he saw a girl sitting on the pavement. There was a scar on the girl's forehead and her white dress was covered with bloodstains.

After Joe saw the girl, he pulled his car up by the road and helped the girl. Joe asked the girl, 'Are you alright?' The girl nodded without saying a word. Joe helped her get into his car and decided to take her to the nearest hospital.

On the way to the hospital, they were sitting silently in the car. Suddenly, the girl leaned over and tried to scare Joe. Joe looked into the rear-view mirror and he was so scared that he screamed loudly. The girl had a pale face, glowing eyes and some fangs.

After a few seconds, Joe slowly pulled his car up by the road. When he tried to get out of his car, he found that the doors were locked and he couldn't open them no matter how hard he tried. Then, Joe turned back slowly to look at the girl, but the girl had vanished. All of a sudden, it was dark everywhere and he fainted. When Joe came round, he realized that he was sleeping on his own bed and it was just a dream.
